Dear colleagues:

We would like to invite you to Taipei, Taiwan, to attend The International Taiwanese Congress of Neurology (ITCN) 2023, Fourth Biennial Meeting. This important stand-alone biennial congress is initiated and hosted by the Taiwan Neurological Society (TNS). The Fourth ITCN will be held from April 14 to 16, 2023. Be sure to mark your calendar to join us.

The main theme of the ITCN 2023 is “Advance of Neurology amidst the Pandemic”. We all experience the progress, advance and resilience in Neurology field during the COVID-19 pandemic. We will arrange an inspiring program by gathering renowned international speakers and Taiwanese experts to share new knowledge and to provide updates on neurological disorders, including state-of-the-art research and approaches for diagnosis and treatment. Additionally, we will offer exceptional education and networking opportunities with leaders in the field. Our scientific symposia cover all the subspecialties of Neurology. The poster sessions are packed with the latest emerging neuroscience, and the interactive lunch workshops take breakout sessions to the next level.

We welcome all medical professionals to attend this congress.

Please join us to share knowledge with each other and to actively participate in advancing the field of neurological topics, while enjoying and exploring Taipei, one of the most prosperous cities in Asia. Registration is now open!

We look forward to meeting you in Taipei. We believe that the Fourth ITCN will bring you a more enriching and memorable experience, and we sincerely anticipate your attendance.
